

Boy or Girl? Myths and Guesses

Fetal Heart Rate: Over 140 Under 140

Complexion: Hello Acne! (or the same as before) Clearer and beautiful

Clumsy or Catlike: Walking gracefully Tripping more than usual

Cravings: Sweet Tooth Gimme' come salty chips!

Morning Sickness: Worst thing ever Never had it

Temperature: Feeling HOT Feeling Cold

Hubby's Weight: Gaining with me Staying the same

Swollen Legs or Ankles: Nope Yes!

Frequent Headaches: None/Only Some All the time

Pregnancy dreams (opposite gender you dreamt of): boy girl

Raise your hands: Soft and silky hands Bring on the moisturizer

Mom's Mood: Very Moody Happy Mellow

Swedish Hair Test: thinner and stringier shinier and fuller

Bump Position: High (directly under chest) Low (sits on the abdomen)

Ancient Chinese and Mayan cultures: If both your age and the year you conceived are even, you're having a girl. Same, if they're both odd. If one is even and one is odd, you're having a boy.

Ring Test. To predict the gender of your baby, tie your wedding ring to a string, and hang it above your pregnant belly. If it swings back and forth, get ready for a girl! If it swings in a circle, you're having a boy.

According to German folklore, the key to predicting your baby's gender is in your eyes. Stare at yourself in the mirror for at least one solid minute, but don't stare yourself down for more than three. No dilation? Your little one will be a girl. If your eyes dilate, you will have a boy.

If you mix two tablespoons of baking soda with your urine: You may be having a girl if the mixture remains flat. if it fizzes you're having a boy.

TOTALS: Girl _____ Boy _____

brought to you by www.CoastalComforts.blog